

McKENN CONTRACTING
KEN ATCHEYNUM /Owner

Ken Atcheyum is a youth entrepreneur and a member of Sweetgrass First Nation. He grew up on Sweetgrass First Nation, the Battlefords and surrounding area. As far back as Ken could remember he was always outdoors and working with the earth; as a child playing with the dirt or as his first job working in landscaping and earth moving. He knew early on his lifetime goal was to work outdoors.

Ken started working in the construction industry alongside his father. It did not take long before his ambition took over to purchase his own heavy equipment and take charge of his own entrepreneurial destiny. In 2009, Ken purchased a grader and officially started his own business. Today, McKenn Contracting offers landscaping, water/sewer, basements and residential/commercial construction services.

Ken pointed out that the Saskatchewan Indian Equity Foundation played a critical role in start-up financing of his business dream and advisory services in planning and expansion. While McKenn Contracting now operates a number of heavy equipment, Ken still has plans to grow and expand his business in order to take on larger projects into the future.
